

Provider Feedback on state contracts with DHSS

Presented to the DHSS Reorganization Contract Subgroup

- ❑ Implications to service quality in community

Survey Data Methodology

DANA members and members of the Ability Network were invited in November/December 2019 to answer survey questions related to their experience with State agency contracts and grants. Questions were derived from a 2013 Urban Institute survey on government grants/contracts and from the 2018 Nonprofit Finance Fund's state of the sector survey.

- ❑ 23 organizations completed the survey
- ❑ 17 have state contracts with the Department of Health & Social Services

This reports the responses of the 17 who contract with DHSS. Though a small sample, these responses reflect the commentary by many DANA members

Feedback from WestSide Family Healthcare

- ❑ Half of our contracts that pay for staff do not cover our full costs.
- ❑ On average, WFH pays an additional 35% for expenses that the grants won't cover. The total dollar amount to cover this shortfall is over $100k.
- ❑ 4 grants are designed to cover staff.
 - 2 of those do not cover market rate salaries or the full costs of employing those FTEs.
 - The remaining 2 cover market rate salaries, but not the full cost of employing those FTEs (additional overhead expense and management oversight).
- ❑ Shortfall in funding the necessary staff needed.
 - For example, we budget for 2.0 FTE in the RFP and get funding for 1.5.
 - The 0.5 becomes very difficult to recruit for in our experience, because most candidates want full time.
 - So, either the position sits open for a longer than normal period (less services provided), or we have to allocate our own resources to increase the position to full time in order to fill it.

Most cover the shortfall by dipping into reserves or asking for private support.

Greatest challenges in contracting with the State are Late Payments and Reporting Process

Experiences Nonprofits Have with Grants/Contracts

n = 17

Feedback from Easter Seals on Reporting

Currently have about a dozen different contracts with various divisions (DPBH, DDS, DMS, DSAAPD, etc).

■ Archaic processes

- we have 4 contracts that require copies on 'CD's.
- Not all boiler plate applications are writable

■ Redundancy

- for every one of the 12 contracts, each year, a submission of similar documents: 501c3 proof, business references, work plans (that seldom change), etc.

■ Variability an Unexpected Requests

- Process/documents for submission varies by Division, and sometimes within the Division
- A change in contact point person can mean a change in expectations that are not outlined in the contract.
- The state requests additional data not in the contract nor in the work plan & an expectation we will not only mine the data but also be in compliance with a requirement that was not anticipated.
- Negotiation is not consistent across all contracts-- with a few Divisions declining any suggestion of such.
- "Indirect costs allowed"-- not consistent across the contracts.

- No change in reimbursement for prolonged periods - vendors have to find more in private donations to offset - limited changes in fees with increasing expenses.

Feedback from the Behavioral Health Committee of the Ability Network of DE

- ❑ Timeliness of renewals and amendments
 - ❑ Receipt of documents only a few days before they go into effect awaiting addendum or contract renewal
 - ❑ Providing services without an active contract
- ❑ Contracts don't align with the scope of work (one size fits all)
 - ❑ Insistence contract language remain uniform though it does not apply or may be inaccurate for vendor relationship
 - ❑ Reporting expectations that are not clear until after contract signed
 - ❑ Contradictions in the contract boiler plate and the scope of services
 - ❑ Expectations provider participate in initiatives that are outside the scope of contract services

Feedback from the Behavioral Health Committee of the Ability Network of DE

- ❑ Payments
 - ❑ Late payments for contracted services
 - ❑ Lack of ability to negotiate during process including indirect rate
 - ❑ Unfunded and or underfunded contractual expectations
- ❑ Current internal systems gaps exist to ensure an equitable contracting system
- ❑ Lack of or inconsistency in who is responsible for contract and contract negotiation

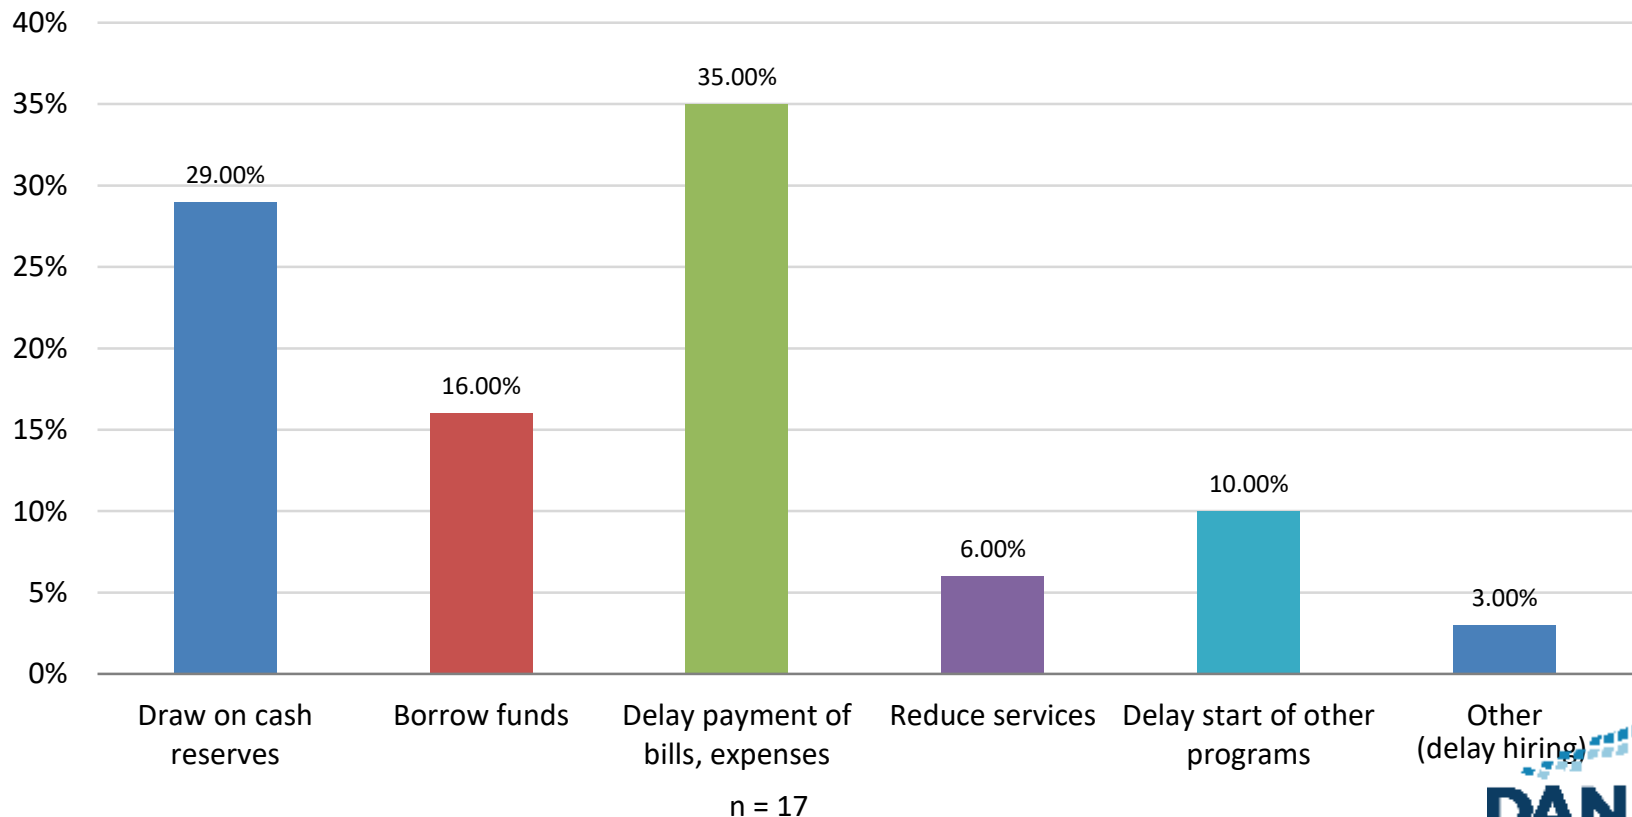

When late payments occur few nonprofits are notified or can easily resolve the delay

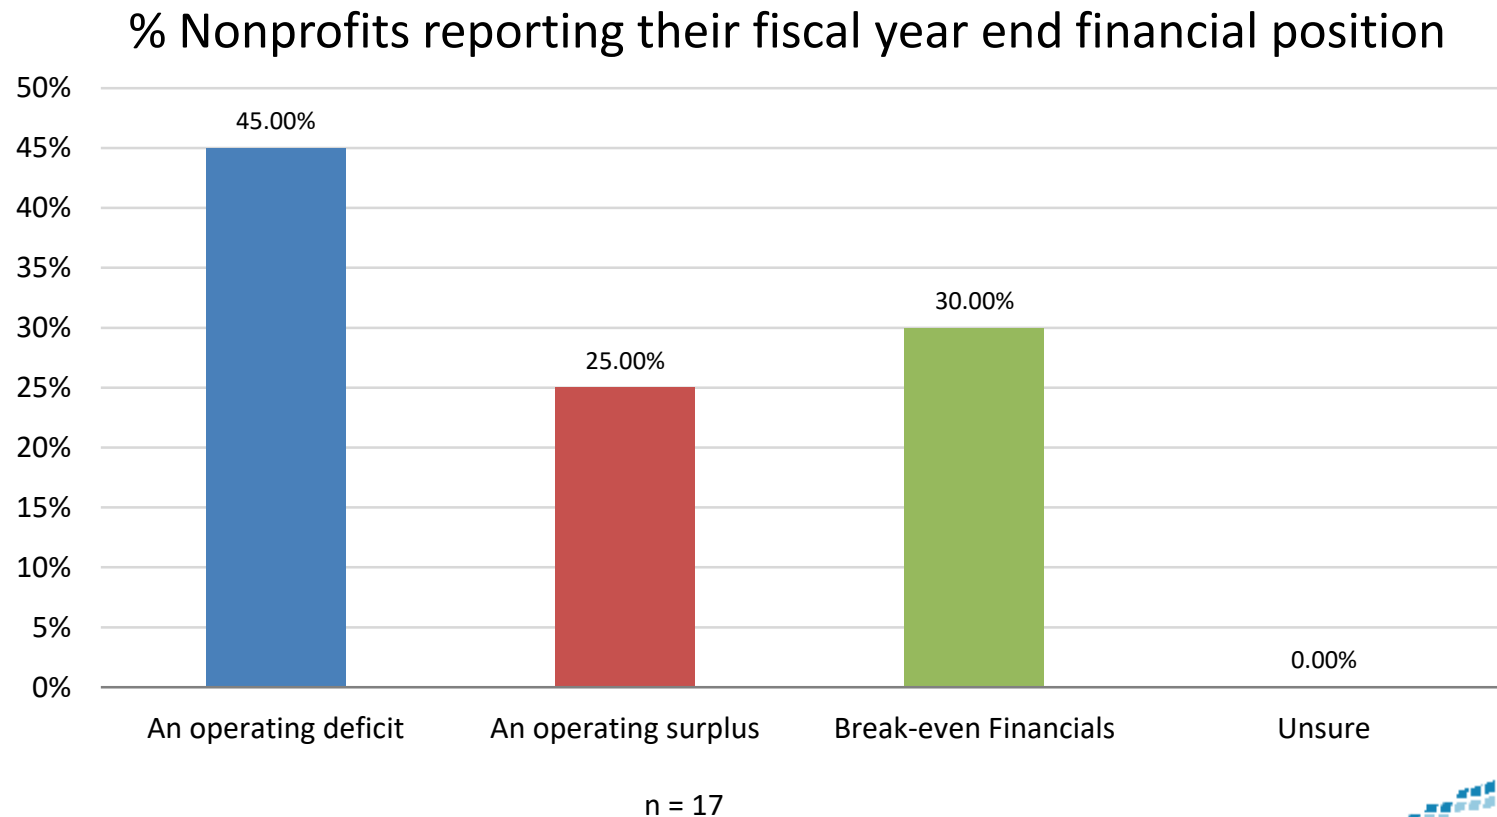

n = 17

Late payments from State contracts results in nonprofits paying their vendors late, taking on debt or reducing services

How nonprofits cover delays in payments from state contracts

These challenges result in few nonprofits who contract with DHSS able to operate with a surplus at the end of the year

Additional issues

- ❑ State division's desire to contract at under $50K levels to avoid RFP. Results in nonprofits doing the same level of administrative management for several small contracts, vs one large one.
- ❑ No ability to file a grievance when payments are late, terms change
- ❑ No ability to Negotiate
- ❑ Some agencies are choosing not to renew contracts with the state –creating gaps in service

Implications for DHSS Partners in Service Delivery

- ❑ Partners are not getting paid to cover the full cost to serve nor to meet rising service demand
- ❑ They experience late payments and do not get advance notice
- ❑ They have difficulty in getting these resolved easily
- ❑ They try and cover the gaps and shortfalls with private donations, with reserves (if they exist), or make late payments to their vendors (impacting their future credit worthiness)
- ❑ Few DHSS partners end their year with an operating surplus, reducing ability to cover future funding shortfalls or unexpected expense requirements

Implications to Services

- Without contract rate increases – nonprofits cannot raise wages even when the State mandates wage rate increase.
- Without rate increases – service availability shrinks
- High stress for staff not knowing if they are going to keep their job due to contract delays
- High turnover of staff due to low benefits/ fixed pay
- Competitive market due to low wages results in 30%+ open positions
- Loss of providers as it becomes not sustainable

Recommendations

- ❑ Follow Federal OMB guidelines for contract terms and indirect rates
- ❑ Follow Department's guidelines and require all divisions pay a minimum 10% indirect costs
- ❑ IT improvements – transparency & coordination, no more CDs!
- ❑ Require new employees honor terms & reporting requirements of contract until time for renewal
- ❑ Be clear about who key contacts are for resolution of issues around payments, terms to ensure nonprofit can reach the right person
- ❑ Create a means for providers to raise issues without risk of losing future contracts, and have a process to address those issues promptly

Recommendations

- ❑ Pay on time – and if you can't communicate early and often
- ❑ When the state changes minimum wage requirements or adds in new regulations and reporting, all contracts need to be automatically adjusted to cover those cost increases
- ❑ Reporting and compliance requirements should be outlined in the contract.
- ❑ A central repository for agency specific items that do not expire, and have agencies provide only those supporting documents that expire-- such as liability, changed work plans and/or budgets.
